

FORMER FOES FLOCK TO WILSON MEETING

Nugent Greets Governor and Accompanies Him on Short Essex Tour.

HISTORY LESSON FOR TAFT

Candidate Laughs at Statement That 1893 Panic Was Caused By Tariff.

Gov. Wilson went into the territory of foretime foes last night to speak a good word for those candidates for the New Jersey Senate and Assembly who were nominated in Essex county by the Smith-Nugent combine at the recent primary.

He did that because he wants William Hughes to go to the United States Senate and because every one of the Newark candidates has pledged himself to vote for Hughes.

A year ago the Governor went to Newark to speak against the candidacies of the Smith-Nugent organization because they had refused to cast their votes for James E. Martin, the preferential primary choice of the Democrats. John J. Bracken is the only candidate who also was a candidate at that time. Last night the Governor did not mention Mr. Bracken by name but included him in his plea for all the candidates.

It was an apparently changed situation which confronted the Governor. James R. Nugent, right hand man of James Smith, Jr., whom Governor Wilson opposed at the recent primaries when Mr.
Smith sought the preferential vote of his party, was a member of the reception committee appointed by the Democratic county committee to meet the Governor and to escort him to Montclair, where the candidate was the guest at dinner of T. Albus Adams.

He shook hands with Governor Wilson as the latter stepped from his train, and sat near him at the guests' table at the Hotel Montclair, where the dinner was held. When the Governor got to Newark later in the evening Mr. Nugent was one of those seated on the stage of the First Regiment Armory.

In none of the three meetings at which he spoke was the Governor made aware of the persistence of any ill feeling toward him because of the past troubles with Mr. Smith. At the dinner in Montclair
Mr. Smith, at the dinner in Montclair
Mr. Smith, at the dinner in Montclair
Mr. Smith, at the dinner in Montclair

The Governor said in his Newark speech that he came at the direction of the national campaign committee and that was the only reference he made to the circumstances that his previous visits had been under different auspices and for a different purpose.

In all his addresses Gov. Wilson made himself popular to the voters and to his candidates on the ground that on their election depended the election of Mr.
Hughes to the United States Senate, and the gaining of the Democratic majority in the Legislature.

The regular Republican party is so disorganized, he said, that it is impossible for it to elect a candidate for the House of Representatives, and all the indications are that it will lose its present hold of the Senate.

He said, however, that he had no hope of speedy relief from the conditions against which there is now a general complaint is to these all three of those departments of government in the hands of a reorganized and reformed administration.

"The only thing necessary to know my exact position on the tariff," he said, "is the ability to read and understand the English language. There have been rumors that I could tell you just what my position is. They know it by heart, but in case there is some one here who does not understand the English language I will tell it to him."

What I propose to do is to go through every tariff schedule with a fine tooth comb and wherever I find lurking a special privilege of any kind to take it out, leaving the tariff schedule free of all special privileges. I imagine myself as a surgeon about to cut from the body politics every unnecessary growth without disturbing the healthy parts. Under the tariff policy of the Democratic party American business will be liberated and not embarrassed.

You have heard of a panic to come.
The only panic that can come is one brought on by the deliberate act of those who control the credit of America and are afraid of having their excessive privileges destroyed by the Democratic party.
This talk of panic is not a prediction, but a threat by those men who can show, if they dare, that they hold the credit of America in the palm of their hands.

"Now I find," he said, "that I am invited to return to my old occupation. I used to be a teacher of history, and I find it necessary to teach it now. I am invited to teach it to the people of New Jersey and to the people of the United States.
I am positively abashed to find myself faced with the necessity of teaching to the President of the United States.

I believe that whatever Mr. Taft puts his hand to he will put it in perfect honesty and sincerity, but I am astounded to find that he has put his name to certain statements in entire ignorance of the circumstances of the case.

He attributes the panic of 1893 to the Cleveland Administration and intimates, either personally or through his spokesmen, that it had something to do with the tariff which was passed the following year. That is the most influential tariff bill I ever heard of, that uses business before it is enacted—almost a year before it was enacted.

But what really upset business in the year 1893, as every true business man knows, was the absolutely financial policy of the Cleveland legislature that had preceded. Ask any business man whose memory goes back to those days and he will tell you that the crisis of the panic of 1893 was coming on with great strides when Mr. Cleveland was sworn into office, chiefly because of the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman act, and that it was the policy of the administration to either the currency or the credit of the country under the financial legislation of Republican administration.

the Republicans. And I want to say this, that if there should be a panic, knowing the circumstances of this country as I know them now, it will come about by the deliberate arrangement of those who control credit in the United States and are afraid of having their excessive and selfish power destroyed by the Democratic party.
"But they will not dare. These accusations, this cry of the danger of factories being shut down, these ancient threats, are not predictions. They are the uter-ances of a party in desperation and despair. No party could utter the falsehoods it is uttering now unless it was uttering them in perfect despair, hoping to mislead those who cannot think for themselves.

The Governor spoke first at the Hillside Grammar School in Montclair, addressing about 2,500 persons. An audience that stretched far beyond the sound of his voice greeted him when he entered the First Regiment Armory in Newark, and Columbus Hall in Gram, where he made the final speech of the evening, was crowded to the doors.

After this meeting the Governor came to New York City to take the 10 o'clock train for Philadelphia. To-day he speaks in Cape May, Wildwood and Burlington in the southern part of New Jersey. He will return to Princeton in the evening.

GOV. HARMON PREDICTS A DEMOCRATIC SENATE

Ohio Executive Takes a Stroll Up Broadway Listening and Questioning.

Gov. Judson Harmon of Ohio came to town yesterday and took a walk up Broadway without a guide. He started at Bowling Green and finished at Democratic national headquarters, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street.

He made many stops. Wherever a wind blown banner proclaimed somebody's political headquarters the Governor walked in. Wherever the populace was basking around some soap box harangue on a street corner the quiet sauter in the gray suit halted and moved from man to man, questioning and listening. Nowhere did he reveal his name.

The queries that Gov. Harmon put to everybody he talked to in that long walk were "How do you think the election is going in New York State?" "Yes? And what are you going to vote for?"

Arriving at Chairman McCombs' office in the Fifth Avenue Building, the Governor told his story.

"I have been speaking in most every State from California to Rhode Island," he said, "except New York. I wanted to find out first hand what the voters were saying, so I went right to the voters.

As a result I have convinced myself that the Republican Party has exhausted their cry of 'Yes, yes, yes' and that the Democratic Party is the largest plurality ever given any candidate."

"S-a-a-h-h-h! You surprise me," grinned Mr. McCombs.

The Governor was steered into the midst of a group of United States Senators who were confabing with the chairman. There were Bacon of Georgia, McClure of Missouri, O'Grady of New York and John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, with William Hughes, candidate for the Senate from New Jersey.

Then the national committee at headquarters followed by 200 office employees, piled in to pay their respects to the man who lost at Baltimore and was stumping the country for the man who won.

Gov. Harmon had to make a little speech. There was no doubt, he said, that the Wilson sweep would be a whopper.
The Republicans had exhausted their cry of rainy days and the only question was who would run second. In the Governor's opinion that person would be Col. Roosevelt.

After the reception the Governor and Chairman McCombs conferred for an hour.
Gov. Harmon brought detailed reports from California, Oregon, Washington, Illinois, Maryland and Rhode Island.

"We will hold all our Democratic congressmen and I am confident we are going to have a Democratic Senate. I have been doing this for four years, and I have been doing it in the most successful of the ticket. I have found the Republicans up to their old tricks in some States.
For instance, in Rhode Island they have rented all the halls in an effort to keep the Democrats from having a place to hold meetings, and notwithstanding this I had the pleasure of addressing a number of large meetings in Providence and I even chance of adding Rhode Island to their list.

"We are fortunate in having such a close friend of the Democratic party heading the ticket in New York State."

Gov. Harmon left the city at 5:30 o'clock for Ohio, where he will close the campaign.
